

Andalusia has lots of traditions and festivities. They are part of the region's culture.

Andalusia's traditional dishes (food) and products form part of the Mediterranean diet. They include: legume and vegetable stews, deep-fried fish and seafood in batter, gazpacho, cured ham, tomatoes, olive oil, olives, grapes, strawberries, almonds and honey.

1 Match the words to the pictures.

Deep-fried fish and seafood in batter

Gazpacho

Olive oil and olives

Strawberries

Legumes, cereals and nuts

2 Complete the sentences.

- _____ are the main ingredient in gazpacho.
- We use _____ to make olive oil.
- 'Calamares a la andaluza' are squid covered in _____ and deep-fried in oil.

Flamenco is a very important part of Andalusian culture. It is expressed through dance, song and the rhythm of the guitar. We can see flamenco at many of Andalusia's festivities and celebrations, for example, the Seville Fair (Feria de Abril).

Women wear traditional dresses. They are long and very colourful. Some have polka dots (lunares).

3 Draw a flamenco dress and colour it in. Then, complete the sentence with the colour(s) of the dress.

The flamenco dress in my drawing is

_____
_____
_____.

